DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to applicant's amendment received on 03/23/05.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1, 34, 42 and 50-52 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bosten et al. (5,285,708) in view of Smith (5,038,481).

Bosten et al. discloses (Fig. 1-5) the invention substantially as claimed including a base 16, a holder 24, a cutter blade portion 28, a laser generator (Fig.2) emitting laser light, said laser light travels in a direction intersecting the rotation axis of the blade when said blade is in the lower position, a laser generator support member 100, means for moving the light emitting portion 90, a resilient body 126, a horizontal/frontward and rearward directions, and first and second stop members (inside walls 48). Bosten et al. does not show at least a portion of the laser light onto a position to be cut on the workpiece so that laser light is directly beneath the rotatable circular saw blade, the laser light travels within a space defined between a two planes defined by the width of the blade, and an entire width of the laser light on the workpiece is locatable within a space defined by a locus of the width of the blade edge. However, Smith teaches the use of lens 48 having light beam directed towards the saw blade and focusing on a cut line 62 (which is directly beneath the saw blade, light travels within a space defined between a two planes and locatable within a space defined by a locus of the width of the blade edge) for the purpose of eliminating all possibility for errors caused by parallax, and permitting a very accurate cut. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the laser of Bosten et al. by providing the same condition disclosed above as taught by Smith in order to obtain a device that eliminates all possibility for errors caused by parallax, and permits a very accurate cut.

4. Claims 2, 12, 37, 41, 45 and 49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bosten et al. (5,285,708) in view of Smith (5,038,481) as applied to claims 1, 34, 37, 42 and 45 above, and further in view of Becker (2,806,492).

The modified device of Bosten et al. discloses (Fig. 1-5) the invention substantially as claimed including a laser generator 205 having a light emitting portion. Bosten et al. does not show a laser generator support member and means for moving the light-emitting portion. However, Becker teaches the use of a laser generator support member 13 having first and second stop members (inside walls) and means 17 for moving the light emitting portion for the purpose of adjusting laterally the light projector assembly. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the laser of Bosten et al. by providing the laser generator support member having first and second stop members and means for moving the light emitting portion as taught by Becker in order to a laser device that can be adjust laterally.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 23-24 and 53-78 are allowed.
6. Claims 3, 10, 11, 35 and 38-40 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
7. Claim 46 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
